

A B S T R A C T

INS/Att
5 ~~The present invention provides a cable comprising at least one optical fiber and at least one covering layer comprising a material including an organic compound and an inorganic compound, the cable being characterized in that said inorganic compound has a layered structure and in that said organic compound is inserted between the layers of said inorganic compound.~~